

TO RUSH TARIFF, TWO BILLS MAY BE INTRODUCED

President is Anxious to Hurry
Legislation and Summons
Fordney.

(Special to The Evening World.)
WASHINGTON, June 23.—Facing with further delay on the big tariff bill Republicans now are considering a plan for a kind of piecemeal consideration. Whether it will materialize depends upon the speed that can be mustered in the next few days.

The suggestion is that there be introduced at once a separate bill containing provisions for changing from the foreign to the American basis of valuation in arriving at customs duties. This would then be debated, while the differences over the main tariff rates are being threshed over and the belief is that it could be passed with little trouble.

One of the first emergency tariff suggestions was to change the basis of valuation. The effect would be to increase at once the rates in the Underwood-Simmons Tariff Law since foreign values now are much less than American. If requirement should be made that assessment of valuation be determined in accordance with American standards of money, much of the complaint voiced in hearings before the Ways and Means Committee would be avoided.

Nothing definite has been accomplished in this direction, but the plan is arousing interest. It offers hope to Republican leaders of pulling them out of their tariff dilemma.

Chairman Fordney of the House Ways and Means Committee saw the President to-day, and was asked to do all possible to cut out delays.

MASSENA, N. Y., June 23.—Massena is without police protection. The voters asked the Police Board to curtail its appropriation for the year, which called for a $2,500 increase, but the Board demanded the full amount or nothing. They got nothing. Meanwhile hardware stores are having a big sale on firearms and the justice of the peace is busy issuing permits to citizens to carry them. There is absolutely no one to enforce the city ordinances.

Abe Attell's Case in N. Y. County.

The proceedings in the case of Abe Attell, former pugilist, who is fighting extradition to Chicago, where he is under indictment for participation in the alleged bribery of baseball players in the World Series of 1919 were transferred to-day by Justice Francis Martin from the Bronx Supreme Court to a civil term of the New York County Supreme Court presided over by Justice Donnelly. Justice Martin upheld a motion made by J. H. Gilbert, counsel for Attell, that there was a question about the legality of the proceedings in the Bronx, inasmuch as they had been originally instituted in New York County.
